Reimagine Aging

Leadership

Dear Friends:

We are pleased to share Senior Community Services' 2013 Annual Report with a caring community of supporters. You'll discover engaging stories about the people we serve, and the donors, staff and volunteers who are so devoted to our mission.

We are grateful for your friendship and support. As a premier support organization for older adults, nonprofit Senior Community Services has been a proven and trusted resource for seniors and their caregivers since 1950. The free or low-cost services we provide enable older adults to remain independent and enjoy a higher quality of life, while permitting often-stressed caregivers to have a respite from ongoing household duties.

As we look ahead, we see the demand for our services growing as members of the massive baby boom generation continue to retire. This largest generation in history is bringing a sea change to senior care and Senior Community Services is well positioned to meet this age wave with competence and commitment.

As the number of Minnesota seniors grows, we continue to see more than 90 percent of the long-term care being provided by family or friends at home. Nine out of ten seniors prefer to live independently in their own home, and caregivers make that possible. But, eventually, love is not enough and more help is required.

Senior Community Services staff and volunteers roll up their sleeves and help make life better. The end result? Seniors, caregivers and their families can enjoy this special time together with less stress.

And that's what it's all about; working side by side to Reimagine Aging in ways that promote dignity, healing and hope — because the best days are still ahead.

Sincerely,

Thad Standley
Board President

Household & Outside Maintenance for Elderly

I can continue living independently, thanks to Senior Community Services.

Laurie, 91, has lived in her west metro home for decades, but she once worried that her days of independence might be coming to an end. While in good health, Laurie struggled to accomplish physical household tasks like snow-shoveling, window-washing and raking the leaves from her many trees.

Thankfully, Laurie discovered the Household & Outside Maintenance for Elderly (HOME) program. The HOME program provides affordable services for seniors 60 and older through a network of staff, volunteers, and independent contractors. HOME is a great way to help seniors maintain independence and give caregivers a break from household duties.

A group of volunteers helped Laurie by performing yard work after the messy winter. "Jeremy and his crew did a great job of raking and cleaning up," Laurie says. "Thanks to Senior Community Services, I can stay in my own home. I'm so happy with your program."

And the volunteers' visit helped ease Laurie's isolation and loneliness, too, because on this day - Mother's Day - she didn't have to spend it alone.

Seniors contribute to the cost of the services based on their monthly income and their ability to pay. HOME also accepts some insurance payments as well as the Elderly Waiver and the Alternative Care Grant.

For Older Adults, Medical Debt May Be Forgiven Under Senior Partners Care

Medical costs quickly became out of reach for me, until you helped.

When Pat retired, the medical challenges emerged. “Isn’t that always the way it works,” says the Stillwater senior with a wry smile. First, terrible headaches. Doctors finally discovered the trigger was a common food additive, sodium nitrate, but not before running a battery of expensive medical tests on Pat. Later came cataract surgery. “The sudden medical expenses were overwhelming to me,” she says.

Pat, who lives on a fixed income and has always paid her bills on time, found her stress growing. “It was a little humiliating too,” she adds, “because I’m not one to ignore my bills.”

Thankfully, Pat heard about Senior Partners Care from an advocate who visited her apartment building. The statewide program that enables qualifying Minnesota seniors to get help bridging the burdensome financial gap between their medical bills and the partial amount covered by Medicare.

Senior Community Services partners with hundreds of hospitals, clinics and providers who have agreed to consider waiving all or part of the healthcare debt owed by qualifying seniors. The decision to waive a Medicare deductible, coinsurance or co-payment owed by a Minnesota senior is made based on a determination of the senior’s financial situation.

Pat had significant medical debt forgiven thanks to Senior Partners Care.

“I can’t tell you how much this program helped. It was a godsend,” she explains. “For those of us struggling financially, to have a place to go for help that isn’t humiliating, so that I can go to the doctor without stressing about my finances, is wonderful.”

Now, Pat is able to stretch her monthly income further and obtain the medical care she needs to stay healthy.

Annual Medicare Health Insurance Counseling May Reduce Costs for Seniors

PAGE 7

Reviewing complex Medicare health insurance information may be only slightly more popular than getting a root canal. But seniors have a great resource to ease their discomfort. The Medicare Counseling Program helps seniors find the best healthcare and drug options for their needs and pocketbook.

Dorothy's Gratitude

Dorothy, a St. Michael resident, struggled to understand the many Medicare and drug coverage options, so she reached out to Senior Community Services for help and made a trusted friend for life, too. "Claudia, my Medicare counselor, went above and beyond when I was trying to decide on healthcare coverage," Dorothy says. "She would even call me at night to compare insurance plans and to check coverage for all the meds I was taking. When I wasn't feeling well she came over to my home. We spent a long time filling out forms, and it's horrible to imagine me doing all of that alone," Dorothy adds.

Dorothy says Claudia was able to save her quite a bit of money on healthcare premiums while tailoring a package of coverage that's just right for her.

Later, when Dorothy had cataract surgery, Claudia helped correct some billing issues. "She talked to the hospital and I would call her when I didn't understand something. She spent so much time helping me, I don't know what I would do without her. I trust her," Dorothy says.

The Medicare Gauntlet

"Many people never think about Medicare until they're about to retire, because the complexities of the programs create a lot of anxiety," says Director of the Medicare Program Kimberlee Bluhm. Factor in the flood of phone calls and mail from businesses pitching their own favorite insurance products when you approach retirement age, and the consumer can be left confused and bewildered by the many choices available.

Senior Community Services staff and a highly trained team of volunteer counselors help seniors and caregivers find the most appropriate coverage from Medicare, Medicare supplements and Part D plans. Counselors help seniors compare costs and coverage to find the very best Medicare plan and supplemental plan for their needs.

Medicare coverage can change for particular medical needs and medications, so it's important to review coverage during Medicare's Annual Election Period.

Medicare counseling is available by phone for any Minnesota resident, and at 20 sites in Hennepin and Wright counties. Navigating Medicare community education classes also are held at public and corporate venues. Private counseling sessions can be arranged by scheduling.

During 2013, Senior Community Services helped more than 1,400 clients lighten their burden with Medicare counseling.

Minneapolis retiree Doris, and her mother, benefited from assistance navigating the many complex Medicare and drug plans available. Doris figures the Medicare Counseling Program has saved her more than $8,000 during the past seven years. "Thanks to the guidance I received, I was able to save $100 a month on my health premium, but I received more coverage, both medical and dental. It was fabulous."

Senior Centers Enhance Well-Being, Ease Isolation and Loneliness

Senior Community Services manages or is affiliated with senior centers throughout suburban Hennepin and Wright Counties. Each center offers a variety of activities for great socialization and cultural enrichment. Events include fitness, art and educational classes; card clubs, book clubs, dining, day trips, blood pressure checks and other health services.

Most of the activities are planned and coordinated by dedicated volunteers. During 2013, nearly 1,500 volunteers devoted 80,533 hours enriching the lives of older adults at senior centers in Delano, Minnetonka, Monticello, Mound, Plymouth, St. Michael and Wayzata.

Jean, age 89, enjoys a vital and fulfilling life as a frequent attendee and volunteer at the Minnetonka Senior Center. She's taught the regular thrice weekly exercise class for the past 30 years. "I can still keep up with my kids," Jean says with a smile.

"Leading regular exercise with this group has benefited me and others in so many ways." Her fitness class helps the 50-some regular attendees stay in shape, and gives them purpose and a sense of belonging.

Make a Friend

Senior Centers cut through the loneliness and isolation that can steal the joy from life. Across Minnesota, there are many thousands of seniors who have no more than one or two social contacts per month. For some, the highlight of their day may be exchanging greetings with the postal carrier or the cable repair person.

Please join us to strengthen our community by extending an old-fashioned sense of neighborliness, checking on and befriending the older adults and neighbors around us.

Together we can Reimagine Aging and ensure a healthy community for our oldest loved ones and neighbors so they are welcomed, loved, and encouraged. Such compassion will enrich life for all of us.

Senior Outreach & Caregiver Services

Across Minnesota, family and friends provide more than 90 percent of the care for seniors living at home.

At age 82, Walter wasn't ready to give up living independently in his own home, even as his support needs increased. Senior Outreach & Caregiver Services was able to help bring a constellation of services around Walter so he could age well in place. "It's nice to know I can get guidance and support for things that are more challenging to handle on my own," he says. "And I like not having to solely rely on family and friends all the time."

Keeping Seniors Independent

A little help goes a long way in helping seniors maintain independence, even those older adults with a myriad of health and mobility needs. "More than 98 percent of Senior Outreach clients continue to live independently," says the Director of Senior Outreach & Caregiver Services Adele Mehta.

Our social workers meet with families to identify areas of daily life where support is needed. They identify trusted, affordable resources for chores, financial help, personal care, social activities to ease isolation, transportation, medical/legal issues and more. Often, our team helps clients navigate life changes like loss of income, widowhood, or diagnosis of chronic diseases. Support for caregivers is another key aspect of the program. Caregiver support groups, coaching and consultation, and family meetings are services that help these devoted family members and friends maintain their own life balance and health.

CareNextion, the Latest in 'Compassion Technology'

CareNextion, powered by Senior Community Services, is a free, easy-to-use, web-based service that helps caregivers to organize care, communicate with others, and find resources for their loved ones.

The confidential care team tool reduces caregiver stress by sharing responsibilities and information with others. CareNextion is a great way to reduce time spent emailing or calling everyone with requests and updates.

Resources can be located on the site or by consulting an experienced social worker. The CareNextion website is a valuable service empowering our community to Reimagine Aging.

Frequently, older adults are able to remain in their own home primarily due to helpful support from a caregiver, usually a family member or close friend. The number of these unpaid caregivers rose 23 percent in recent years to 54 million, according to the American Association of Retired People (AARP). But helping takes a toll. Due to their ongoing duties, caregivers often work by themselves and have less time for family and friends. Often, they have little or no time to exercise, eat a balanced diet, or get regular health checkups. Studies show caregivers are more prone to illness, and 7 out of 10 have clinically significant symptoms of depression.
